

Prima Night

3.7. – 4.7.2012

We wanted to continue with activities with our youngest students this year too, but with one little change – we spent a night at school. It was the first time in the history of our school.

The program was variable and we focused on collective games to help them in getting to know each other so they could start the new school year easier. We joined again activities organized by our teachers which they did in the first part of the day and met our new students after lunch. We introduced ourselves and spent the whole afternoon by playing different games. Probably the most popular were outpost games where they showed a real competitiveness. Also dekobal caught their interest, but it changed into the war with waterballoons much earlier than we expected. Fortunately it was hot sunny day :)

After dinner our primans went to prepare the place in two of classrooms where they were going to sleep. Both groups chose one film to watch before going to bed and at midnight school was calm and quiet. At 2 a.m. primans had to leave their warm beds again – the night game. It had an idea and the rules at the beginning but suddenly it changed into chaos running and screaming and it was really difficult to say who should be haunting and who was haunted. Here I have to say that girls were much braver and there were some boys who refused to leave their sleeping bags! We had breakfast together and primans continued with program with teachers.

It was very successful activity and we learned a lot (for example 11 year old child eats much more than you would expect). Not everything went by plan but it was easy to make it up and the activity reached its aim – it helped to melt borders between primans and get to know each other quicker. We would like to thank to Mrs. Kuková for the help during the whole day.
